

There was a bad King. He made everyone a slave. One villager call Sam. He read about magic flowers that can make people sleep. Sam found the flowers and put them in a bag. At night he shot it into the palace with a sling shot. The King and guards fell a sleep. Sam and the villagers covered their noses and rushed in to the castle. They caught the bad King. The villagers are so happy because they are free.

