There once was a hero named Lucy,
who wore super safety lenses.

Super Lucy has magical powers to rescue people around the world.

A child in a purple shirt and dark shorts stands on a dark, craggy rock formation, looking up at a bright shooting star streaking across a dark night sky. The sky is filled with stars, some of which are bright and multi-pointed, and a large, colorful rainbow-like streak. The scene is set against a backdrop of dark, silhouetted clouds.

One day there were 100 shooting stars falling down to Earth.

Everyone was in danger of going blind from the bright, strong stars.

At midnight, Super Lucy used her safety lenses and her power to turn the crazy shooting stars into a big constellation that has different combinations.

The sky became calm but twinkled with the new star patterns.

Everyone enjoyed the gorgeous sky.

They decided to have a festival every year to celebrate Lucy's Stars.
