What a big fuss on baby brother's birthday!

My parents managed to take time off to celebrate Pete's birthday. I made a golden celebratory bunting, a homemade cake with pastel macaroons as toppings as well as his favourite smashed avocado toast.

Mum filled the picnic basket with scrumptious foods and brought along the checkered blanket. We also ordered a gigantic Sunbrella and Polaroid to take photos, and all of these were especially for Pete's birthday.

When the family was halfway to Winsor Park for a picnic, Pete cried for a return as his birthday wish was to stay home with his beloved toy friends for a tea party.
