My First Kung-Fu Training That Horribly Wrong

“Hi ya!” yelled the sensei, It was the first day of Kung-Fu training when I skipped a move and the sensei got furious and fought me. But when he did a kick on me, he slipped, landing on an empty chair head first and was rushed to hospital.

Unfortunately, he broke his ribs and had to stay in the hospital with all his relatives by his side. I felt bad because I didn't do the dojo well, so I sent him some flowers and luckily, he got better in a month, but I never went back and always remembered it.
