

The paper airplane and the thunderstorm

This story starts off with folding a paper airplane. The paper airplane starts off its journey like any other paper airplane, flying around the Earth and exploring places like cities and mountains. This paper airplane likes to explore cities. As the airplane learned to fly faster, the long distance between the cities seemed to become shorter. And, one day when the airplane was flying over Manhattan, a thunderstorm suddenly began! The paper airplane wanted to fly out of the storm but unluckily flew over the lightning rod of a skyscraper in Manhattan. I think you can guess what happened next.
